

List of Contributors

Barry Christie is a member of CAPP. Since graduating from the London School of Economics in 1983 he has maintained a strong interest in psychoanalytic theory and practice. He has worked as a therapist within the NHS and voluntary sector and also held public sector policy and project management positions within social services, urban regeneration, community safety, education and healthcare. Barry is a teacher at CAPP and has contributed to the development of programmes for Confer. His short story, 'The bike', was included in the Tales of Psychotherapy book published in 2007. Email: barryjameschristie@yahoo.co.uk

Jane Kitsen is an attachment-based psychoanalytic psychotherapist in private practice in West Yorkshire.

Liat Levy is a relational integrative psychotherapist and psychologist (BPS). Following a long relationship with the therapy world, Liat is now in the final stages of her Doctoral thesis in integrative counselling psychology and psychotherapy at the Metanoia Institute, where she is exploring the issue of 'Love in psychotherapy'. Liat was born in Israel, and spent the early part of her childhood split between two countries (Israel and the USA). Later in life, she settled in London, where she involved herself in a range of self-development activities before completing her BSc (Hons) and MSc in Psychology while working as an occupational psychologist, primarily focusing on group dynamics. Currently, Liat is working as a psychotherapist in the NHS, where she sees clients with complex clinical needs, as well as in her private practices in north and south London. Email: liat.levy@btopenworld.com or liat@liatlevy.com

Benjamin Marr is a registered psychoanalytic psychotherapist. He is also a qualified dance movement therapist and uses creative art therapies in his private practice. He conducts a supervision group at the Chelsea Methodist Church in psychodynamic counselling. He currently teaches at CAPP on difference, including disability and race awareness, and he will be teaching on adolescence in the next academic year. He has a background in painting and creative work. Benjamin has a Masters degree in Drama and Theatre. Email: benjaminmarr@btinternet.com

Joanna North, MA, is a UKCP accredited integrative psychotherapist, with a Masters degree in Psychotherapy. She has worked with children, adults and families for fifteen years. Joanna organizes her thinking drawing on attachment theory and integrative models to help with her work. Her organization is registered with Ofsted as an Adoption Support Agency and she works as a registered trainer for the Family Court Advisory Service having written trainings in Attachment and Child Development for them. Joanna also works as an expert witness for the family court, aside from her regular client base of complex cases who are children and young people in the looked after sector. Joanna is currently completing her Doctorate in Psychotherapy, writing on caring for children in the looked after sector with significant attachment difficulties. Email: joanna.north@virgin.net

Joann M. O'Leary, PhD, MPH, MS, Adjunct Faculty School of Nursing & Centre for Early Education and Development, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN, USA. Joann has a background in early childhood special education and as a parent–infant specialist in a high risk prenatal centre. She has been endorsed by the Michigan Association in Infant Mental Health as a faculty/research mentor in infant mental health, and does consulting and research in the area of perinatal parenting. Please address all correspondence to Joann M. O'Leary, PhD, 3208 Rankin Rd. NE, Minneapolis, MN 55418 USA. Email: jandj@pro-ns.net or www.jmbirthconsultants.com

Richard Reeves is a psychoanalytic psychotherapist and supervisor and is a member of the Forum for Independent Psychotherapists. He has a particular interest in relational/attachment trauma, dissociation and self-states. Email: psychotherapyn7@blueyonder.co.uk

Jenny Riddell is a psychoanalytic psychotherapist, supervisor and teacher. She works in private practice with couples and individuals and teaches on a variety of clinical trainings and MA programmes. She has a particular interest in how couples grieve, working with difference and infertility. Email: riddells@onetel.com

Mary Stack is a psychodynamic counsellor working with a team in private practice. She has a background in pastoral ministry and subsequently trained as a counsellor. She has developed a counselling service for an independent boarding school and has worked in a university student counselling service. She is particularly interested in working with adults coping with the effects of childhood trauma and neglect. She is increasingly engaged in family constellation work and draws upon that and systemic theory to enhance her practice with individuals. Email: mscounselling@btinternet.com

Clare Thorwick is a retired antenatal nurse clinician and author in the area of pregnancy after perinatal loss. She co-facilitated a weekly support group with Joann O’Leary for over sixteen years with families pregnant after a loss. Together they combined their two backgrounds to develop a relationship-based prenatal parenting programme to support attachment to the unborn child.

Rachel Wingfield is a UKCP registered psychotherapist and is the Chair of the Centre for Attachment-based Psychoanalytic Psychotherapy, where she is also a training supervisor and teacher. Rachel has a wide range of clinical experience in a variety of settings including forensic settings, and has specialized in working with survivors of trauma and abuse, including sexual abuse, rape, domestic violence, war, state terror, torture, and organized abuse. She has undertaken clinical work with violent offenders in prison settings. Rachel has a particular interest in concepts of diagnostic labelling, ‘unsuitability’ and ‘untreatability’ in relation to psychotherapy, and how they are used to distance us from working towards change with traumatized people. Rachel is also a psychotherapist with the Clinic for Dissociative Studies. Email: rlwingfield@blueyonder.co.uk